

As it stands now, there is too much already allowed on broadcast television. Relaxing the current policy would not serve the public interest and I urge the FCC to reject all proposals that would allow for the broadcast of expletives and nudity on FCC-licensed stations.

My family and I have cut back our viewing of television programming significantly due to the amount of expletives and inappropriate content already allowed on the network. Any further relaxing of policies would only move us to the point of cutting out television altogether.
